

TUESDAY 15 APRIL

'Watercolour Animals' by
Glynis Barnes-Mellish

Glynis focuses her attention on the creation of form through the buildup of colour and detail, wash by wash. However, watercolour is an extremely difficult medium to control and has a strict requirement for accuracy. Mistakes are not easily rectified as the very life of the painting relies on light reflecting back from the white paper base, through the colour.

Newsletters by Email

I have noticed a few members have printed their copy of the newsletter and the colour hasn't come out properly.

You can enjoy the colour on screen but if you have trouble with colour when printing and just want a copy for reference it will print well if you print it in greyscale

There is now a public Facebook Page for Berkhamsted Art Society.

<https://www.facebook.com/pages/Berkhamsted-Art-Society/1399534420284957?ref=hl>

Facebook users can invite their Facebook friends to exhibitions via Facebook Events linked to the page. An event for the Spring exhibition will be set up nearer the time.

These Events may also be shared with other Facebook Groups in the local area, giving us lots of free publicity! Always a good thing! Jackie Harbron has suggested that Art Society members may wish to post photos of their art to the Page. We could also use the Page to communicate between members, remind them about demonstrations etc. If you are a Facebook user, you should be notified of any posts made to it if you 'Like' the Page. As it is a Public page, you don't have to belong to Facebook to be able to view much of it, but you do have to belong to Facebook to be able to post any comments. Please feel free to send any feedback, queries, suggestions etc to Tracy either by posting a comment on the Page itself or by e-mailing her at tracydudley@aol.com
